What Factors Affect the Cost of a Man and Van in London?

1. Distance and Travel Time

Longer distances mean more time and fuel, which increase costs. Also, moves within the Congestion Zone or ULEZ may carry additional charges.

2. Number of Helpers

- 1 mover is cheaper but slower
- 2-3 movers reduce loading time and speed up your move

More helpers = less time = lower total cost in many cases.

3. Van Size

- ? Small vans: ideal for single rooms or light items
- ? Medium vans: suited for 1-2 bedroom flats
- ? Large vans: best for full house or office moves

4. Packing Services or Materials

Need extra help? We offer optional add-ons like:

- ? Packing and unpacking services
- ? Furniture dismantling/reassembly
- ? Materials like boxes, bubble wrap, and wardrobe cartons

These are priced separately at hourly or per-item rates.

5. Time & Day

Evening, weekend, or end-of-month moves tend to be more expensive due to high demand. Booking mid-week and mid-month usually saves money.

How Can I Save Money on a Man and Van in London?

- ? Pack everything before your movers arrive
- ? Avoid last-minute bookings
- ? Choose the right van size to avoid multiple trips
- ? Book mid-week and outside peak hours
- ?? Mention stairs, parking, or access issues upfront

? Furniture Delivery	1 man + small van	1 hour	£40 - £60

FAQs About Man and Van Prices

Is it cheaper to hire just one man and a van?

Yes, but it may take longer. For larger moves, two movers are often more efficient — saving you time and sometimes money.

Do I need to pay extra for stairs or no lift?

Possibly. Long carry distances, multiple floors, or lack of lift access may incur extra charges. Always mention these when booking.

Are packing materials included?

No, but you can buy packing supplies online or ask us to bring them on moving day.
